Retail milk is now 13 cents per quart in he majority of the creameries and grocery stores of the city, the raise in price soing into effect Monday. The increase s the direct result of the federal milk commission's hearing in Boston recently, where the government heard both sides of the milk problem from producers, retailers and consumers. The hearing decision was in favor of giving the producers more for their product and so the general public pays the price, as usual. The price of ilk has also gone up a cent a quart in Hutland, the people of the Marble City now paying 11 cents per quart for milk instead of 10 at the cart and 10 instead of nine at the creamery.

Champlain National Farm Loan Association Organized.

Will Conduct Business in Chittenden and Grand Isle Countles, Loaning Money to Farmers on Land or Buildings.

Backed by the United States government, through the First District Federal

Farm Loan bank, located at Springfield, Mass., the Champlain National Farm Loan association ,to conduct business in Chitganized yesterday afternoon at the office of the Chittenden County Farm Bureau association in the Stannard Memorial building. H. Linwood White, organizer of the associations, assisted by County Agent Dana, perfected the organization; from Sixteen farm owners became charter members to give the association a start applied for loans totalling about $50,000 and immediately after the address on the merits of the association by Organizer White they held their first session, deided on the name and elected the follow ing directors to serve until the first an nual meeting; G. M. Hazard of Charlotte William V. N. Ring of Jericho, S. E. Walker of Underhill, Homer Flynn of Essex Junction, Aleric Bentley of Jericho and E. H. Fink of Charlotte. The directors then ballotted for president, with the result as follows: President, G. M. Hazard of Charlotte; vice-president, S. E. Walker f Underhill; secretary-treasurer, William V. N. Ring of Jericho. The loan committee appointed, who duties will be to make a survey of the farm and buildings on which the loan will be made and make a written statement as to the valuation, etc., and give their statement as to how much of a loan should be made, consists of Fred P. Tillison of Underhill, E. H. Fink of Charlotte and Homer Flynn of Essex Junction, with of Underhill as substitutes.

The rate of interest on the loans is 514 per cent. and will be made through the association by the Federal Farm Loan bank of Springfield for a term of from five to 40 years, the most desirable term eing 35 years because it makes the interest come in even figures. The loans may be taken for $100 to $10,000 and can be made by any farmer or prospective farmer. The loans may be made to pur ings, to increase the livestock, to buy equipment or to pay off mortgages. For the prospective farmer, picked out his farm and has not the demoney enough to fill up the difference Loans will be made for one-half the value (based on the loan committee's report, the town assessor's report and the report of a federal investigator) of the land and onefifth the value of the buildings. He secures the money for 61/2 per cent. each year, but one per cent. of that is applied to the principal and in 36 years the entire principal is paid off. For the first five year the farmer can pay only the six per cent but after that can pay off the loan at any time. As soon as the loan is paid he automatically dropped as a member of the association. Loans will be paid to the farmer in about three months after he having to be made and sent to Washing ton. Members may come into the association at any time on vote of the director but to contract loans, only. Further advice on the matter may be secured from any
